Hints for Prevention of Infantile Paralysis

Issued By the United States Public Health Service

To control the present epidemic of infantile paralysis, according to a statement issued by the United States Public Health Service to-day, the chain of infection between persons harboring germs of the disease and the well members of the community should be broken. Infantile paralysis is probably caused by a very minute organism found in the nasal mucus and bowel discharges of those who have the disease or who are carriers of the germ without themselves suffering from the ailment. All of the steps in the spread of the infection are not known but if this germ can be presented from passing from the infected to the well person the disease will cease.

Infantile paralysis is not a disease of recent origin. Sporadic or scattered cases have occurred throughout the country for many years, but it is only during the last decade that the infection has assumed epidemic proportions in the United States. The present epidemic in New York city on account of its magnitude and virulence has awakened the residents of many communities to the danger of the importation of the disease into their own midst. This danger is real but if due precautions are exercised it is believed that the epidemic will subside.

The actual control of the present epidemic must be left to the city, state and federal health authorities. These organizations will probably quarantine and for infected persons, prescribe sanitary measures and limit as may be necessary the travel of individuals in order to protect neighboring districts from the infection. Individuals and communities, however, can do much towards their own protection.

Poliomyelitis is probably spread directly or indirectly through the medium of infectious secretions. Account must therefore be taken by communities of every means by which such secretions are disseminated. Promiscuous expectorations should be controlled. The common drinking-cup affords a method for the interchange of material of this nature and should therefore be abolished. Rigid cleanliness of places should be enforced. Flies, roaches and other vermin coming in contact with infective secretions, may possibly convey to our food and thus directly bring about the development of disease. Therefore eliminate insects. Street and house dust bear a definite relation to the spread of many infections and it is not unreasonable to presume that they may be a factor in the dissemination of infantile paralysis. Maintain strict cleanliness of streets, yards, and alleys in order to prevent the breeding of insects and other vermin.

See that all garbage and waste are properly cared for and collected at regular and frequent intervals. Guard all food supplies, especially milk and other perishable products. Digestive troubles of children arising from the indigestion of food of questionable quality may lower resistance. Assemblies of children in infected localities are to be discouraged, if not actually forbidden. While the above measures are in a sense general, and applicable to many epidemic diseases, their importance should not be overlooked.

Individual preventative measures may be thus summarized: Summon a physician at once and immediately notify the health officer of the presence of the disease. If the disease is present in the community, medical aid should be sought whenever a child is sick no matter how light the illness; many cases of infantile paralysis begin with a slight indisposition. Should the illness prove to be infantile paralysis, isolate the patient, place a competent person in charge, and reduce all communication with the sick room to a minimum.

Hospital care is preferable, not only for the child but in order to better safeguard against the spread of the disease. The sick room should be well ventilated and screened, nasal and mouth secretions should be received in cloths placed in a paper bag and burned. The clothing of the child, the bed-linen and the excretions should be disinfected in the same manner as for typhoid fever, that is by boiling, a long continued application of 5 per cent. carbolic, or other well recognized disinfectant. The same is true for dishes and drinking vessels. Nurses should exercise the same precautions as regards cleanliness of pans in caring for infantile paralysis patients as for those afflicted with other infectious diseases.

A child may convey the disease to others even after a lapse of several weeks. For this reason quarantine should be maintained for considerable period, usually from 6 to 8 weeks and the above precautions should be adhered to during this time. Disinfection of the room following recovery is advisable.

New York's hot spell was broken by a heavy rainstorm.

GIDDINGS HORSE STOLEN.
The telegram from Newtown respecting the horse of Mr. Giddings (a mare) has been explained. She was stolen the night previous, July 16th. The man who had her was unable to find accommodations in any barn where night overtook him, and so unharnessed and tied the animal to the hind part of the wagon. He then furnished her with a supply of hay, and placed himself in the wagon to sleep for the night. On waking up in the morning he found the horse gone, and has no doubt it was stolen by some person who was prowling about in quest of plunder during the night. Messrs. Webb and Smith, who hired the horse for the adventure, offer a reward of twenty-five dollars for any information that will lead to recovery of the animal.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.
Yesterday, a boy employed in a store in Wall street, was amusing himself with a small hose in wetting down the dust in the road. Instant upon the work he was engaged in, he paid no heed to persons passing on the walk, and in one of his gyrations downed a lady, all over with water, from head to foot. Her dress and hat trimmings were green silk, and were so saturated and disfigured as to spoil them except for the common cases similar to this are too hospital will be presented. Sheriff Hawley still suffers from the injuries he received in Springfield a few weeks ago while arresting Henry Bristol. His head gives him a great deal of trouble.

NEW NEWFIELD SCHOOL.

At the meeting of the Educational board last evening contracts for the building of the new Newfield school in the East End were awarded. The contractors who were selected were: Masonry, John Rutherford, $75,440; carpenter work, H. H. Nettleton, $14,000; plumbing, L. H. Mills, $2,874; steam and other fitting, L. H. Mills, $5,397; iron work, Coulter & McKen-
$1,400.

There was a tie in the bids for the slate roofing, and George M. Levy & Son were awarded the contract at $2,000 because of the satisfaction they had given in work done heretofore for the board. The total cost of the building including metallic ceilings, which do not appear in last night's contracts, is $56,099. Its construction will be deferred until late this fall, or early next spring, as at the present time there is only $30,000 available for the work, that being the amount appropriated by the Appropriation board. The new building is to be located at Stratford and Central avenues.

The resignations of Miss Catherine Cullinan and Miss Jennie S. Smith, teachers, were accepted.

LUSH HEADS THE SENATORS.

Lush now heads the Senators' batting list. He played center yesterday in a 12 inning game with St. Louis and made one run, one hit, had four put outs and one assist; he also had two stolen bases.

WHEEL CLUB TO MEET.

The Y. M. C. A. Wheel club will meet at headquarters at 7 this evening in uniform for a run to Greens Farms.

W. I. L. W. PICNIC.

Workers' International Industrial Union will hold a picnic next Sunday in Segal's Grove. Refreshments and games will be open all day. A. E. Whitehead of Hartford will give an address in the afternoon, "Why the Workers' New Industrial Organization." Take Stratford car to end of line and walk five minutes on road to the right. Everybody welcome.
